The Chapel

The All Saints' Sisters of the Poor opened a home for elderly Episcopal women at 2016 Race Street, Philadelphia, in the year 1913.

Since that time this site has been a home for women, where each guest has her own room, well cooked meals and the love and interest of the Sisters who are in charge of St. Anna's Home.

Services are held daily in the small Chapel on the top floor. There are two sun porches that are used by the women for sewing, reading and visiting. Each afternoon Tea is served in the first floor living room, providing the opportunity for a pleasant and social time for the women to be together.

A minimum charge of $100.00 a month is made for room and board. This does not cover all the operational costs and the additional must be provided by the Associates and friends of St. Anna's Home.

May we count on you for a contribution to aid in the continuance of this work so ably conducted by the Sisters?

THE ALL SAINTS' SISTERS OF THE POOR

This order for Religious was begun by the Church of England in 1851 where it grew rapidly. Its good works are manifold in England and America. The major part of its efforts are confined to administering Homes, Hospitals and Orphanages. Saint Anna's Home in Philadelphia is the work of the Sisters here and their devotion to service is an inspiration to all.
